ITEMS DEBATED

Tripartite Social summit

The Council took stock of preparation for the Tripartite Social summit, which will take place on 17 October just before the European Council. As the latter will focus on growth-enhancing measures through the finalisation of the economic governance package, the Social summit will need to discuss how to enhance trust and social dialogue to sustain recovery and structural change.

The Social summit brings together the troika of Heads of State and Government (the current and two forthcoming presidencies: this year PL, DK and CY), accompanied by the respective Employment Ministers, the Presidents of the European Council and the European Commission, the Employment Commissioner and the Presidents/General Secretaries of the principal European employers' and trade union organisations. Employers will be represented by BusinessEurope and trade unions by the European Trade Union Confederation (ETUC).

Use of the European Social Fund under the Europe 2020 Strategy

In view of the forthcoming submission by the Commission of its cohesion package, the Council held a comprehensive and fruitful debate on the future role of the European Social Fund (ESF) in the framework of the EU 2020 Strategy, based on a Presidency background paper (14224/11).

In the light of the forthcoming discussions on the Union's budget for the period 2014-2020, Employment ministers considered how the ESF could be part of a more performance-oriented EU cohesion policy, which requires the focus to be shifted from financial inputs and outputs to efficient policy objectives.

They acknowledged that the ESF should be used in a more efficient way by eliminating cumbersome administrative procedures and bureaucracy, and should assure complementarity between different operational programmes.

ESF targets should be linked to the EU 2020 Strategy, but should also correspond to the specific needs and priorities of the member states at national as well as at regional levels.

In addition to combating social exclusion and reducing poverty, the ESF should play an important role in helping young people to participate in the labour market at a time when unemployment hits record high.

The Council discussions concentrated on the following questions :

- how the ESF could contribute to the implementation of the EU 2020 objectives and headline targets in the areas of employment, educational attainment, social inclusion and poverty reduction;
- the goals of the various flagship initiatives to which the ESF should provide priority support;
- how to reorient the ESF towards a more result-based approach and how to simplify procedures, in particular for the beneficiaries;
- possible ways for actors at EU, national, regional and local level to improve the effectiveness of the ESF and how the ESF could be made more efficient in delivering on these targets;
- how the coordination between the Structural Funds could be improved in order to achieve comprehensive policy objectives.

The debate showed that a consensus did exist on the need:

- to streamline the ESF procedures;
- to make full use of the ESF in order to achieve the EU 2020 objectives;
- to ensure a proper articulation of the ESF with other Structural Funds;
- to target the most vulnerable and promote inclusion for those who do not participate in the labour market.

The ESF is the main funding instrument at European level to promote employment, social inclusion and equal opportunities, and to develop skills and competences. In the 2007-13 programming period, EUR 75 billion have been made available to national and regional authorities from the ESF. Around EUR 20 billion have been allocated to enhancing access to employment and preventing unemployment, and around EUR 10 billion have been earmarked to promote the social inclusion of vulnerable groups. The member states have made extensive use of ESF funding to cushion the impact of the economic crisis, prevent unemployment and reintegrate into the labour market those people who have lost their jobs.

The ESF is one of the key financial levers for putting the Europe 2020 Strategy into effect. The Europe 2020 Strategy, adopted in 2010 for the next decade, sets out a vision of Europe's social market economy for the 21st century.

The Fund has a particular role to play in supporting several of the 2020 Strategy's flagship initiatives, such as "an agenda for new skills for new jobs", "youth on the move" and the "platform against poverty". The ESF should also contribute to the achievement of several headline targets, notably the employment, the educational attainment and the poverty reduction targets.

The future of all European instruments and programmes will depend on the shape of the next financial framework for the years 2014-2020. In this context, the successful implementation of the 2020 Strategy can be achieved by ensuring substantial funding for the ESF in the next EU budget. In "A Budget for Europe 2020", the Commission proposes that the ESF allocation be increased by 10% compared to the 2007-2013 period, reaching a total of EUR 84 billion.

Voluntary work in social policy

The Council adopted conclusions on the role of voluntary work in social policy (14552/11), taking account of the activities and discussions in the context of 2011, European year of voluntary activities promoting active citizenship.

The conclusions stress that voluntary activity is an expression of active citizenship in all areas of social life. Volunteering strengthens common European values like solidarity and social cohesion. It is crucial to the development of democratic values, human dignity, equality and subsidiarity, which are among the founding principles of the EU.

Volunteering has furthermore the potential to contribute to the well-being of individuals and to the harmonious development of European societies. It offers important learning opportunities, as involvement in voluntary activities can provide people with new skills and competences. It can even improve employability and thus furthers the achievement of the objectives of the Europe 2020 Strategy.

It can also help the transmission of knowledge, the inter-cultural dialogue and be instrumental in bridging the generation gap, addressing gender inequalities, reducing existing social barriers, intolerance and all forms of discrimination.

The conclusions furthermore invite the Commission and the member states to take specific actions in their respective fields of responsibility.

Managing demographic challenges through better reconciliation of work and family life

The Council adopted conclusions on demography and reconciliation of work and family life (14553/11).

The population of the EU is ageing considerably and the resulting change in the composition of the population is expected to have a great impact on the structure of Europe's social and economic life. Tackling the various facets of demographic challenges has therefore become a key priority.

The conclusions aim in particular to strengthen institutional cooperation in this field and to facilitate information exchange between various bodies and initiatives at both European and national level.

They also aim to strengthen existing methods of cooperation and knowledge-sharing on care systems for dependent persons, including childcare and long-term care, and to involve the social partners in looking for the best solutions to deal with the consequences of the demographic challenges.

FISHERIES

Convention on fishery resources in the South Pacific Ocean

The Council adopted a decision on the conclusion, on behalf of the EU, of the convention on the conservation and management of high seas fishery resources in the South Pacific Ocean (8135/11).

This adoption follows the consent of the European Parliament.

In 2006, the governments of Australia, Chile and New Zealand took the initiative to launch the process of international consultations on the establishment of the South Pacific regional fisheries management organisation (SPRFMO). The purpose of the consultations was to cooperate in addressing the gap in the international conservation and management of non-highly migratory fisheries and protection of biodiversity in the marine environment in high seas areas of the South Pacific Ocean, consistent with international law and best practice. Having fishing interests in the South Pacific the EU cooperated in this process from the start with other interested parties in the management and conservation of the region's resources.

The text of the convention was agreed in November 2009 and has been open for signature since 1 February 2010. The EU signed the convention text on 26 July 2010 in accordance with the Council decision on the signing, on behalf of the EU, of this convention, adopted on 24 June 2010 (9825/10; 11442/10)

The EU has still to ratify the convention in order to show continued support for the establishment of this regional fisheries management organisation and facilitate the process of entry into force of this convention.
